New Battery Holders Catalog Released for 2017

Memory Protection Devices, Inc. (MPD) is proud to announce the release of our new and improved battery holders catalog. It has been completely redesigned from the bottom up, and now users can quickly find the right battery holders for their projects. The new structure of our pages intuitively leads users to the best battery holders for their applications. Additionally, many new products were added, with battery holders for coin cell batteries taking center stage. With so many new sizes, shapes and styles, designers have more choices than ever before.

An updated list of distributors is included so users can quickly find parts as needed for quick shipment. Distributors have their current stocks of our parts displayed directly on the part pages of our website, Batteryholders.com, letting you know where to get our battery holders more easily than ever before.

The catalog can be downloaded at: www.memoryprotectiondevices.com
